ADDRESS OF WELCOME

(By Frederick Bomely, President)

We, the Class of 1944, welcome you, our parents and friends, to our Class Night Exercises.

Tonight, as we begin our commencement activities, you see the result of twelve years of intensive training. The complete understanding of our parents, the careful guidance and inspiration of our principal and teachers, the encouragement and loyalty of our friends, and the diligent work of the Class of 1944 have prepared us for the serious tasks which lie before us. With our heads high and hearts true, we face our world knowing that there is a place for each.

Now we turn to the lighter and more humorous side of life as we share with you our reminiscences of our four years at Enfield.

Again, on behalf of the Class of 1944, I extend to you a hearty welcome to our Class Night Exercises.

CLASS HISTORY

(By Mildred Blaszko)

When time who steals our years away Shall steal our pleasures, too, The mem'ry of the past will stay And half our joys renew.

Musing and reflecting on this familiar quotation of Thomas Moore, I do not doubt that there is anyone in this audience who does not recall with pleasure the many joyous hours of his school days, in moments such as this.

As some day we, too, the graduating Class of 1944, will be seated in an audience such as this, watching future generations prepare to make their way in the world, let us envision ourselves in such an audience, and dust off an old volume, our "Scrapbook of Memories," so that once more we may relive four precious years of our lives.

Remember that September of 1940 when we first entered through the doors of Enfield? That was a moment we had looked forward to for eight years, and our eager faces and resolved expressions bore a note of pride—pride in our school and everything it stood for.

The Senior-Freshman Reception, arranged by the Seniors for the purpose of welcoming the Freshmen into the school, made us feel warm and glowing inside to know that we were the first class of Freshmen to be honored in such a manner by the Seniors, and to be recognized as a part of the school. The great success of this first attempt has now become an accepted tradition with each senior class.

This seemed to have been a year of changes. A new and original plan of rotating editors was adopted by the Freshmen for the Freshman Static Page. Much hidden talent was brought out by this plan, and, before long, everyone began to look forward to read-

After a few months of school had gone by, and the process of acquainting ourselves with our class members had been completed, we held elections of class officers. We felt that Fred Bomely as President, Genevieve Ward as Vice-President, Janice Ryan as Secretary, and Margaret Kiley as Treasurer, proved capable of leading us.

The dramatic ability present in some of our classmates had occasion to reveal itself in the one-act comedy, "Quiet Please." Under the able direction of Mr. Nigro, members of the cast, including Claire Pare, Janice Ryan, Claire Rush, David Bordua, and Sevario DeCaro, journeyed to Ludlow High School on February 10 where "Quiet Please" was presented.

Students of our class gathered together for fun and frolic at the outstanding social event of the year, the G. O. Party, where movies and dancing were enjoyed.

Francis Panella, Joseph Cusimano, and Clarence Hicks showed great promise of outstanding athletic careers because of their work on the Freshman Football Team.

As the June of 1941 slowly fades away, we turn a page in our "Scrapbook of Memories," and that memorable fall of 1941 comes into view.

Remember that September, when, after having already established a firm foothold in our high school careers, we were ready and proud, as Sophomores, to walk the corridors of Enfield High, side by side with other upperclassmen? The glorious feeling of being a part was instilled in our hearts and minds on that September morn.

We were welcomed back by a new principal, Mr. Langford, to replace Mr. Lee, and soon we learned of new changes in the faculty. Mr. Angelica and Mr. Ricci, two of our teachers, were the first to leave their positions to enter the Armed Forces of our country. We were sorry to lose two of our favorite teachers, but we felt that what was our loss was the Army's gain.

To lead us during the forthcoming year, we elected Fred Bomely again as our President, Joan Kennedy as Vice-President, Margaret Kiley as Secretary, and Edward Zebrowski as Treasurer.

"Collegiate Revue," the annual Hi-Y Minstrel, was getting under way early in the season under the direction of Mr. Tatoian. Many of our class members comprised the chorus, while Janice Ryan represented our class as soloist, and John O'Brien as endman.

The leading dramatic production of the year was "Lease On Liberty," skillfully coached by Miss Helen Javorski. The cast included Janet Bromage, Claire Rush, and Fred Bomely.

The annual one-act play contest was held at Enfield this year. "Let Sleeping Dogs Lie," a comedy, was presented under the direction of Mr. Nigro, with Claire Pare and David Bordua in the leading roles.

An outstanding event at Enfield this year was the "Ballad For Americans" Concert, with the Glee Club of Enfield accompanying Paul Robeson. The students who took part will long remember this event as a treasured and unusual experience.

Once again the end of another year clouds our memory, and, with a new-won confidence in ourselves, and a definite aim in our minds and hearts, springing from a successful year of achievement. we felt prepared to bestow upon ourselves the title of "Juniors".

This was a year marked by more changes, both in faculty and in our curriculum. Our country's entry into the war caused everyone to put forth more effort, and to adopt "Work and Study for Victory," as his slogan. Eager to do our part, we felt it was our duty to do all we could, because this was our war, too.

Again we were welcomed back by a new principal, Mr. Hassett, to succeed Mr. Langford.

First Aid, War Economics, and an Air Raid Protection course were added to our curriculum as "Victory Classes" for the ensuing school year. Two hours a week were devoted to these courses from our regular schedule. It was not an unusual sight, if, walking through the corridors on a Tuesday or Friday morning, we saw a group of students administering the correct artificial respiration technique on their classmates.

We were especially grateful to our new principal, Mr. Hassett, for inaugurating the lunch period, a refreshing fifteen-minute pause in the day's work. We also gave many thanks to the Home Economics Department for preparing those delicious sandwiches which were enjoyed daily. No, that rushing from the various classrooms at the end of the fourth period was not a fire or air raid drill; it was only the students going to the cafeteria.

Another course, which was added to our curriculum in conjunction with the war effort was Aeronautics. Mr. Fowler served as instructor for a time, and later was replaced by Mr. Staszko. We all gave three cheers for our aeronautics students and the instructor who will teach them to "keep 'em flying."

A main event this year, as always, was the election of officers. Fred Bomely was elected President for the third successive time, with Florence Moschetti as Vice-President, Jean O'Brien as Secretary, and Joseph D'Ascoli as Treasurer.

The annual Hi-Y Minstrel, "Victory Revue," the first public presentation of the year, directed by Mr. Tatoian, was well-received, and members of our class who appeared as principals in this production were Janice Ryan, Elspeth Stowe, Claire Rush, and Dorothy Dobrozensky as soloists; and Janet Bromage, John O'Brien, and Robert Gallant as endmen.

With physical well-being constantly stressed during war-time, new commando tactics in the girls' gym classes were formed as part of the "keep fit" program. It was not uncommon, therefore, on Mondays and Thursdays, to see the girls, all out of breath, coming into the classroom just in time for their next class.

Orchids went to Miss Javorski, director, and the cast of "Skyroads", the annual school play. Those who made it such a great success were Claire Rush, Janice Ryan, Frances Burns, Janet Bromage, Joan Fahey, David Bordua, and Fred Bomely. Being one of the best plays ever presented, "Skyroads" merited the high praise and commendation of all attending the performance.

Members of our class who deserve credit for their excellent work on the staff of the Static this year are Claire Pare, editor-inchief; Josephine Caramazza, literary editor, and Josephine Angelica, business manager.

The coming of spring meant the long-awaited Junior "Maytime" Prom. Hostess Adeline Cimino and Host Terry Burke were present to greet the gay couples, who danced for one joyous evening when school and studies were forgotten.

"How to Get and Hold a Job" was the topic for Career Day. sponsored by Mr. Lyons. Representatives of various fields and professions presented some helpful and timely suggestions on this topic, and acquainted us with different occupations and professions.

We noted keenly this year the absence of three greatly-admired members of the faculty. The names of Miss Crombie, Miss Simonton, and Mr. Fowler were added to those of Mr. Angelica and Mr.

Ricci, as having answered their country's call.

As part of our work toward victory, drives for war stamps, salvage, waste paper, and silk stockings were launched in the early part of the year, and were continued throughout the year.

In the fields of sports, the Basketball Team brought honor to themselves by winning the coveted Valley Wheel Championship.

Time has certainly played a trick on us. The curtain had already come down on three years—three years of diligent and conscientious study, along with fun and pleasure, had gone down into history. We gloried in the thought that we were on the threshold of Room 26, and were ready to assume the rank and honor of a Senior. It seemed almost like a dream to us, but in September, 1943, we found it to be true.

To lead us in this "red-letter" year we again chose Fred Bomely as our President. Because of his work in the past three years, he had proved capable of leadership. Florence Moschetti was elected Vice-President; Adeline Cimino, Secretary, and Edward Zebrowski, Treasurer.

To open the season, "Southland Revue," the annual Hi-Y Minstrel was presented, again under Mr. Tatoian's fine direction. Fred Bomely appeared as interlocutor, while Janice Ryan, as soloist, and Janet Bromage, Jennie Zawada, Elsie Walsh, Robert Watton, and Robert Gallant, as endmen, highlighted the show.

The prominent social event of the season was the annual Senior Prom, having "Snowball" as its theme. Florence Moschetti, hostess, and Francis Panella, host, were present to welcome the many couples.

Margaret Kiley brought honor to our class and school by placing first in the Local, District, and County Oratorical Contests sponsored annually by the American Legion, and by winning second place in the State Contest.

Participating in the annual Junior Model Congress held at American International College in Springfield were Margaret Kiley, Claire Rush, Charles Robinson, and David Bordua. The group, accompanied by Mr. Lyons, made and presented bills in regular congressional fashion.

Early in 1944, a new department was instituted in our school. The Industrial Arts course, with Mr. Volquardsen serving as instructor, was in the experimental stage, but since then rapid progress has been made.

Eleanor Longmore and Charles Robinson represented our class in the annual school play, "What a Life," with Miss Carey and Miss Townsend directing.

With many members of our class comprising the chorus, and Terry Burke in the cast, "The Forest Prince," an operetta presented by the Music Department and directed by Miss Roach, received many rounds of applause.

On May 1, a group of 85 Seniors, accompanied by Miss Malley, Miss Raissi, Mr. Hassett, and "Coach" Whalen, who served as chaperons, journeyed to New York City where fun and enjoyment were in store for all. On May 4 we returned to Thompsonville—a group of tired, but happy, Seniors.

Among the outstanding athletes and lettermen in sports are the names of Korona, Panella, O'Brien, Legienza, Terry Burke, D'Ascoli, Siana, Hicks, Campbell, Cusimano, Watton, Renals, and

CLASS PROPHECY

(By Robert Finnan, Wanda Pierog, Constance Agrapides, Clemens Polek, Carmelina DiMaria)

Good evening. I had a dream last night—a strange but interesting dream. It was about the people with whom I graduated, the class of 1944 of the Enfield High School. That's almost ten years ago, but the events all seem to exist in the present. I can't seem to recall, but I found myself walking down Main Street.

There I met Cosimo Bosco, the owner of the local finance company, Josephine Pierz his personal secretary, and Wanda Pierog, his representative to Argentina. For entertainment I went to see Clarence Hicks, the leader of the hottest band in town, with Elsie Walsh playing sweet tunes on the piano. The band is currently performing in the beautiful terrace room of the exclusive Thompsonville Hotel.

After the show I had an interesting conversation with Loren Reed, now head of the Northern Connecticut Light & Power Company. Francis Bourque, his chief light operator, is known all over the country for his daring exploits. During a recent storm he saved Frances Burns from getting hit by a huge raindrop while on her way over to the Enfield Visiting Nurse's office.

After seeing Loren Reed, I accidentally bumped into State Trooper Robert Gallant who was carrying on quite a talk with Joyce Sheridan, founder of the "Sheridan School for Nurses." I felt in need of diversion so they directed me to Goodson's Fun Farm. There I met Joe Cusimano, now the ace of the New York Yankee DeCaro. Most of these boys starred in athletics throughout their four years at Enfield.

Miss Brakel, Miss Raissi, and Miss Ailen, faculty advisers, Margaret Kiley, editor-in-chief, and the entire staff of the Static, including reporters, typists, and mimeographers deserve our highest praise and many thanks for the excellent work they have done.

The faces missing from our midst this year were those of Mr. Russell and Mr. Smith of the teaching staff, and several of our fellow students, Edward Zebrowski, Donald Perry, Joseph Perry, Clarence Hicks, Joseph Cusimano, and Gilbert Pierce, who left to enter the Armed Forces. They will always hold a place of honor in the halls of Enfield and in the hearts of all of us, their classmates.

Now, as we come to the last page of our "Scrapbook of Memories," we feel that we have brought to a close a chapter in our lives—closed but not forgotten. Even though our volume may become dustier and more worn with the years, it will always be there, that we may lift the cover, and once again relive four glorious years at Enfield High.

pitching staff. Running the business department of the Yankee organization were Jean Panella and Carmelina DiMaria. Carmelina is now in the New York Yankee's Office in Mexico City. I stepped into the model department of the W. T. Grant Co., and saw Concetta Angelica, Miss Connecticut of 1953, and now Miss America of 1954. She has been very helpfully aided in her quest for the championship by her manager, James Caronna. For classical enjoyment I went to see Janet Bromage, a famous Metropolitan opera star, now playing in the nationally known Strand Theater.

Feeling a bit hungry, I stopped at Annette's Coffee Shop, owned and operated by Annette Vasseur. It is located in the former residence of "Ye Old Town Tavern." In her employ are Stacia Olechney, Margaret Sferrazza, and Mary Fowler.

Glancing across the aisle, I met David Bordua's "Hello". Dave has become known as the second Wendell Willkie because of his basic arguments on the leading subjects confronting the country. Bordua is running neck and neck with President Roosevelt in the race for the presidency. It is rumored that Bordua has a slight chance to win his way to the White House.

Then I met Wanda Pierog, now living in Argentina and before

I could recognize her, she was talking to me.

Hello, Robert. Say, have you heard that Raymond Ligenza and John O'Brien are organizing an Argentina baseball team? Their agent, Francis Martin, is booking games with Myles Kennedy's Ace Welders. I understand that Claire Pare, that famous South American dictitian, prepares the meals to keep the Welders in proper physical condition. Miss Pare's efficient secretary is Mary Theofiles.

Incidentally, Lillian Johnston is also a secretary working for Clemens Polek in the scientific research department of the Neelans & Klimek Museum. Polek is now in Quebec doing research work. Miss Neelan's private secretary is Constance Agrapides who is leaving next month to tour the United States. Anne Purdy will fill this vacancy. I understand that Marich Gaetani, a very efficient nurse, takes care of the exhibits which trace the evolution of the human body since the days of the cave man.

I learned from Joan Kennedy that Thomas Cammilleri will open a modernized funeral home here in Buenos Aires. Miss Kennedy has accepted the position as secretary to this rapidly rising businessman. While in Buenos Aires, I attended the Argentina Conservatory of Music where Therese Starr has been playing to an enthusiastic audience. From the Buenos Aires Press, I learned that Betty Myers had played there for two months.

Going from Buenos Aires to Chile, I met Edmund Renals piloting a passenger plane headed for Africa. The hostess was Annette Landry, that cheerful glamour girl, who seemed to be enjoying her conversation with Lillian Ryan. Miss Ryan was traveling to Africa with her employers, the Misses Longmore & Buck in order to take important notes on the writing of their new simplified stenography book. In the same group was Marion Hayden, who told me that she will introduce the book when it is completed. The plane left the ground with a beautiful take-off, and I boarded my train to Chile. I haven't met any more of our classmates, but I did receive a letter from Constance Agrapides who is now in California. She wrote me an interesting letter in which she said:

Dear Wanda,

The other day I attended California's Big League Football Game with Anthony Siana and Francis Panella as its star players. In the bleachers I met Jack Becker and Charles Robinson, now head engineers of the San Francisco Engineering Co. As one of the football players was injured, he was immediately taken to the Western Memorial Hospital, where Mary Porcello is superintendent of nurses and Josephine Caramazza is head nurse in the operating room.

While I was at the Fashion Shop yesterday, I talked to their expert dressmakers, Audrey Howard and Caroline Legienza. They informed me that Terence Burke is Dean of the University of California, whose renowned faculty consists of Shirley Landry, Claire Rush, and Janice Ryan.

By the way, did you know that Edith Criscitelli has established her Beauty Salon on Main Street? Her assistant, Virginia Slick, has achieved prominence as an outstanding hair stylist.

I recently dined at the Crystal Club and saw Donald Brown and Edward Wojnar leading their swing orchestra. Dancing to their music were Robert Watton, principal agent of the Central Union Insurance Co., and his lovely secretary, Jean O'Brien. Other stenographers employed in this office are Ann Lamagna and Genevieve Ward.

Oh yes, Gilbert Pierce wen first prize for his farm products at the recent County Fair.

Lila Reed has written me that she has secured a position as secretary to a business executive. Helen Kamay will also be employed in the same office.

As suddenly as Wanda left me I found myself in Quebec talking to Clemens Polek. He said:

Hello Bob! It was on the tenth anniversary of my graduation from Enfield High that I spent a vacation in Quebec, Canada, where I met many of my former classmates of 1944. I took a large twelvengined transport plane from the Windsor Locks Airport, which was flown by John Conboy with Edwin Bourque as his co-pilot. As I was sitting very comfortably in one of the large chairs, Josephine Angelica and Janet Tierney came up to greet me. They were both stewardesses aboard the plane.

I had previously heard that Fred Bomely was president of the "Pay As You Go Insurance Company," of Canada and I was anxious to see him about some life insurance. His personal secretary is Eileen Robinson.

I arrived at the Shangri La Airport in Quebec about 10:30. The airport looked strange to me so I began a sightseeing tour. In one of the so-called hangars, I saw Henry Sidor repairing a new type of helicopter, which was the queerest thing anyone could imagine. My next visit was to the Department of Agriculture, where I found Edwards Potwine and Joseph Perry working on a book entitled, "How to Raise Weeds."

It was nearly noon, so I asked Joseph where I could get a good lunch. He advised me to go to the Best Foods Restaurant, owned and operated by Jennie Zawada. While I was eating my lunch two tall handsome fellows entered the restaurant. I soon recognized them as Robert Fournier and Donald Perry. Bob told me he was a correspondent for the North American Daily News and that Donald Perry was his most able cartoonist.

The intense heat made me very thirsty so I went into the Walgreen Drug Store for a milk shake. To my surprise I saw Peter Radosti, the proprietor of this store and Bertha Petraska, his bookkeeper.

My supply of money was diminishing rapidly so the next day I went to the Bank of Canada to cash some of my ten-year-old bonds from the last World War. Behind a big stack of bills were Joan Fahey and Rose Angelica. Rose told me that Florence Moschetti was a gym teacher in one of the high schools of the city. I wanted to see how this school ranked with Enfield, so I ventured out to look at it. As I was walking through the playgrounds I saw Saverio De Caro giving a group of boys a terrible workout. His basketball team had won the championship four times.

When returning to my hotel that evening, I met Irene Mercier and Elspeth Stowe leaving a large beauty parlor after a hard day's work. Irene remarked that she had recently talked to Dorothy Dobrozensky in the nursing school of the "Quebec Hospital" for men.

The hotel was sponsoring a dance that night which I attended. Dancing the South American rumba was Dorothy Jacobs.

Then Polek informed me that he had to go to Mexico to transact some business for his employers, and before I could say "Jack Robinson" we were in Mexico. There I met my old classmate Carmelina DiMaria, who stopped to talk to me.

Hello Robert. I haven't seen you for almost ten years. That certainly is a long time.

I suppose you've met some of our former classmates here in Mexico. Edward Zebrowski, the well-known literary genius, is visiting this country to collect material for his latest novel.

June Magnuson, the first woman to become president of the Third National Bank, has engaged Rita Vesce as her private secretary. Miss Vesce also does some modeling after her regular office hours.

Edward Arrowsmith, the District Attorney of Merida, and the Highway Supervisor, Matthew Korona, were both on their way to see Eleanor Marcinkiveg, the head librarian at the city library. Their mission was to obtain information for very important plans.

Joseph D'Ascoli is the proprietor of the Modern Bakery Shoppe of Mexico City. As he transacts business on such a large scale, he has employed Ralph Fiore as his assistant baker and Victoria Poleski as the manager of the executive department.

Adeline Cimino and Lillian Cammilleri are in the various offices of the capitol building, where they have established themselves as the finest stenographers in the state.

Edmund Wosko, the chief pilot for the American Airlines, arrived here today with Mildred Blaszko, who came to take over the position of superintendent of nurses at the General Hospital of Mexico.

Say Bob, I hear that you are now successfully operating the Finnan Construction Co., and are the chief engineer yourself. I also understand that John Sullivan gave up welding to become one of your staff members.

I was pleased to run into Joseph Rumore, Jr., today's number one comedian, who is here to make a special appearance on the Greater Mexico Fund Broadcast which is being sponsored by the generous benefactor, William Lee. Other celebrities who are also here to offer their services to charity include Margaret Kiley, the famous orator; Collins Campbell, the star hockey player of the United States and Canada; and Harriet King, the chief cartoonist at the Walt Disney Studio in California.

Incidentally, I recently met Carmelina Marinaccio, who is the proprietor of the Smart Dress Salon now being operated on Lombard Ave. As her private secretaries Miss Marinaccio has engaged her capable friends, Elizabeth Terry and Patricia Lynch.

Then much to my regret the alarm clock went off and I had to get up to face the real world.

Forever will our thoughts and deeds Be with our school which filled our needs. With love and kindness in each heart, We smile a bit before we part.

To all, we say with some regret That these have been the best years yet. And so to thee we bade farewell, Our teachers and our friends as well.

Now forward to our chosen goal, Some to tread with friends till old. Some to march to fame alone, But all to meet in God's sweet home.

Maybe that's what keeps her so When not working on studies, merry. She is cutting a stencil.

So use this key which is sure to fit the door.

Robert Fournier.....Firecrackers
Robert is a quiet boy
And rather bashful too;
We are giving him some firecrackers
To make a crash or two.

Mary Fowler Earrings
Earrings Mary always wears
To school and other affairs.
These we hope will be a delight
And she will always look all right.

Robert Gallant.......Automobile Policy
Bob likes to drive a car;
He likes to speed along.
This policy we give to him
So he can never go wrong.

Jeanette Goodson......Soothing Syrup
Jeanette is always heard by all
In class and passing in the hall.
Here's soothing syrup to calm her down
And then there will be fewer frowns.

 For to look at her hands is always a treat.

Lillian Johnston.......Lipstick
Lillian is shy and sweet,
And also very quiet.
If this bright lipstick she would use,
The boys would start a riot.

Helen Kamay......Bottle of Smiles
There are many kinds of smiles
But your smile is not new;
It has traveled many miles
Spreading the charm of you.

Myles Kennedy......Tire
To Myles we give this tire
Because he has a car.
If the ones he has don't last,
This one is up to par.

Harriet King......Paint Brush
Harriet is an artist
She is gifted in many ways.
And her aptitude in painting
Will surely bring her praise.

Wanda Klimek...... Lux Soap
To keep that school girl complexion
We all know that it's no fun;
To make sure of no competition
Lux soap will see that it's done.

Matthew Korona......Book of Athletes Matthew is our athlete. To see him in action is a treat.

Shirley Landry......Teacher's Degree A teacher Shirley desires to be, And so to her we give this degree.

Caroline Legienza.....Sewing Kit When sewing days are over, Here at Enfield High, This sewing kit will remind you When it's time to thread the eye.

June Magnuson......Sugar
In our golden chain of memories,
We consider you a link;
You're one of the sweetest members
Of this year's class, we think.

Eleanor Marcinkiveg.......Noisemaker
This noisemaker is for Eleanor
Who is a quiet girl.
She'll attract enough attention
If she will give it a little twirl.

Carmelina Marinaccio.......Nail Polish
Her nails do shine,
And always look fine,
Because Carmelina has ambition,
And nails must be in good condition.

Francis Martin.......Bottle of Cheer With your smile you've a way Of making friends day by day. Bottle your excess cheer, And give it to someone queer.

Marjorie Neelans....Needle and Thread In school she is quite bright Because she studies with all her might. Although in home ec. she is at her January to December.

best; She does all right in all the rest. Florence Moschetti...........Medal
Florence has earned this medal
By leading our cheers,
And helping to solve our problems
These four long years.

Jean O'Brien.......Mirror
A mirror for this pretty lass,
So she can see upon the glass
What all the boys have admired,
And why many have been inspired.

John O'Brien................Alarm Clock
John comes rushing in
When classes are about to pass,
So this alarm clock should help him
To be on time for class.

Stasia Olechny Pillor
Perhaps you never fell
Because you ride so well,
But keep this pillow in case,
You fall on that certain place.

Bertha Petraska......Bom
Bertha is very quiet,
She never says a word,
But this bomb should make up
For what we've never heard.

Josephine Pierz.............Dancing Shoes
To polka is her delight.
She could dance from dusk to light.
These dancing shoes may keep
Her feet from going to sleep.

Mary Porcello......Book of Knowledge Mary studies long and hard To get all A's on her card, But when she goes to college She'll need this book of knowledge.

Take this little mouse trap,
And if you use it right,
It may help you catch
The man that's in your sight.

Loren Reed......Ticket of Admission to Roller Skating Rink
He is at Riverside almost every night,
For roller skating is his delight.
This roller skate ticket may help him win
Some contest that he enters in.

Your car is a little out of date,
And driving at your usual rate
You are sure to need
A car with more speed.

Charles Robinson.......Airplane
Here is a little airplane,
Because some day you plan to fly,
For every time you hear a plane,
We hear you heave a sigh.

Eileen Robinson......Toothpaste
Eileen has a pretty smile,
And charming are her ways;
Use this Ipana every day
Because a pretty smile pays.

Lillian Ryan.....Lipstick
Lillian is very quiet!
And quaint in her ways,
We give her this lipstick
Which proves that beauty pays.

Margaret Sferrazza...Friendship Book Margaret is so very gay, And she is friendly, too, To her we give this friendly book, So her friends won't be few.

Therese Starr......Freckle Cream You haven't any freckles now To mar your fair complexion; This jar of freckle cream then Is just a jar of protection.

Our Elsie plays the piano,
She is very musical and gav;
This music should make a hit
When at the piano she does play.

ADVICE TO UNDERGRADUATES

(By Margaret Kiley)

Educational Pedagogues, Aspiring Intellectuals, and Friends:

The ticklish task of imparting eloquent advice upon the unfertile minds of our underclass inmates has been for years shifted upon a member of the graduating class. If the youthful tyrants can control their appetites and lay aside their lollypops for a few minutes, the class of 1944 will give to them gratus the product of its twelve years' experience.

The only fault we have to find with you, dear little cherubs, is in your appearance, your manners, your speech, and your actions. Aside from these trivial factors, you are almost human.

First, let us muster our strength and take a quick look at the Junior boys. Banish the thought! If we Seniors were immature enough to believe the theory of spooks, we would have run for our lives last September. Children, we realize that Frank Sinatra is the idol of millions of girls, but do you Junior boys have to drape your hair over one eye like poodle dogs? And then there is the "G. I. Haircut"—"All or Nothing at All." And your figures, boys, oh boys, those poor "Vitamin B-1-lacking" physiques of yours. Then come the large, colored Perry-Winkle bowties. Another Swoonatra fad! The long flashy zoot soot jackets and the high-water trousers complete the comedy. These frail creatures may be contrasted with walking zombies. Their backs stooped, their arms dropped by their sides, they struggle with life and slowly creep along our corridors. Oh, you poor little gremlins! Compare your fragile countenances with the strong, Superman-type Senior boys, who are always impeccably neat and dignified in appearance—at least, our boys are alive!

The Junior girls fancy themselves to be Betty Grables, who must camouflage themselves beneath inches of glamour face powder. In traditional "flapper" style, they apply rouge and lipstick on their thick masks of grease, leaving the impression that they belong to a tribe of Indians. Their hair styles are unreasonable facsimiles of the long, gorgeous locks, and the breathtaking upsweeps of the Senior girls. These would-be "Women of the World" are usually garbed in sweaters which bag to their knees and skirts which can hardly be seen. These young waywards can learn a great deal by observing the technique of the Senior girls, who are beautiful without the aid of make-up. Our sophisticated clothes make us stand out as ladies of good taste and culture. Juniors, you must learn to follow in our tracks if you ever expect to be dignified Seniors.

We Senior girls realize that it is a prodigious honor for a mere little Sophomore remnant to waltz with us, but do you have to get on your knees to ask us? The girls in the Sophomore class are far superior to any boys we've ever seen. There must have been a mix-up somewhere. Strong, husky Draculas are they, whose every word is a growl. Their hair is camouflaged beneath turbans, and baggy slacks replace the once-familiar feminine apparel. Whereever they may be, they greet our Senior boys with back-breaking slaps on the shoulder. We hear that Mr. Hassett has been granted additional funds by the Board of Education to supply balls and chains for these young ruffian females. There is no lack of life in these adolescent 1-A's. They barge through the halls, banging doors in people's faces, and in their paths leave unconscious boys and Seniors. They excel in baseball, football and soccer, and often display their ability in these lines on the dance floor.

Everything has a purpose to these tireless imps. The shining orderly desks of the Seniors are elaborate waste paper baskets to them. The newly painted basement walls are an invitation for their immortal autographs. Study hall is a recreation period in which the underclassmen construct and fly paper airplanes and spitballs, whose destination is any moving object. Education to them is like death: it comes eventually, but one never quite knows what is beyond.

We left our spectacles at home tonight, and almost missed the Freshmen. How could we mistake them—with their yard-long butterfly hair ribbons, lollypopped mouths, and that "I want my mamma" expression on their faces? Ah, the dear, sweet innocent Freshmen, they are a studious group. They have school spirit and brains, but no motion. They burn the midnight oil cramming knowledge and wisdom into their tiny heads. After all, they have to learn their lessons, so they will have something to forget when they become Sophomores.

These four lines, written by Oliver Goldsmith, express our opinion of a typical Enfield Freshman—

"And still they gazed,
And still the wonder grew
That one small head
Could carry all he knew."

Never mind, Freshmen, in four years you will be Seniors and then you will know everything there is to know, and you can relax.

Speaking in a more serious vein, we Seniors have cultivated many friends in the underclasses. All the students have been cooperative and respectful, and their friendship is one we'll keep.

There are already boys from our class who are giving their services to their country, in the army, the navy, and the marines. Within a few months most of the boys on this stage tonight will be fighting for our country and the principles we believe in. We, the Class of 1944, sincerely dedicate our efforts to a speedy victory and a just and lasting peace for all men.

REPLY TO ADVICE

(By Thomas Secondo)

Educators, Presumably educated Seniors, and Fellow Sympathizers:

Responding to these high and mighty Seniors in behalf of the undergraduates is a singular honor left to the Junior class president. It is with exceeding joy that I attempt to bring these Seniors down to their proper level.

For 12 years your teachers have tried in vain to penetrate the inner recesses of your craniums and cram them with knowledge.

But—isn't it true, you must admit defeat?

What strength have you Seniors to muster up? You've used up most of it wondering whether or not you'd receive your diplomas tonight. Why, you even discovered that it is strenuous work to drag yourselves along the halls in the morning. Getting up the last minute and rushing to school may account for your lack of cheer, pep, and enthusiasm.

So—the Junior boys comb their hair after the style of Frank Sinatra. Boy, don't you Senior boys wish you had hair to comb! Our Junior boys prefer to wear Perry-Winkle bowties to nothing at all. As for the dignity of your esteemed and learned Seniors—how can one with open shirt collar, baggy trousers, and a superior attitude consider himself the least bit dignified? Show me a Senior boy who resembles Superman and I'll charge him with false impersonation. I wouldn't even compare a Senior boy with Donald Duck, for he is at least animated.

The Junior boys prefer their girls to look like Betty Grable than to have the contorting Judy Canova type. If I were judging the Senior girls by the merit system, they would have to begin with a decided handicap to make any kind of a showing. Do you find the Junior boys worrying if the girls use a little more make-up? Why, no! They understand that they are to copy the so-called intelligent Seniors. They are only imitating their elders.

Noticing the behavior of the Seniors in their classes and in public, I can only say that the Senior girls are fortunate to have Junior girls as models for proper manners and appearance. The Senior girls can definitely consider it a "prodigious honor" to dance with an honorable Sophomore. And as for the begging, when given the hungry wolf-stare, the Sophomores have to ask you, or else.

In reference to the matter of your desks being used as waste-paper baskets—it is a pity to attack the poor defenseless Sophomores. You Seniors might remember that there is a conservation program, the purpose of which is to save paper.

My eloquent adviser couldn't see the Freshmen, but we certainly don't have to see you Seniors to know that you are about.

CLASS WILL

(By Janice Ryan)

Friends, Members of the Faculty, Underclassmen, and future Inmates of Enfield High School:

We, the Class of 1944, being of exceptionally sound and intelligent mind, do hereby publish and make known our last will and testament, declaring null and void all previous wills, testaments and instruments, bequeathing the property hereinafter described to its stated receivers.

ITEM: To the school we leave our gratitude, our hearts, and our collection of autographs on the basement walls.

ITEM: To Mr. Hassett we leave our congratulations for producing such a superb senior class as ours.

ITEM: To all members of the faculty, who have never failed to be our friends and advisors, we bequeath our sincere thanks for help rendered us. However, we request that they do not remain in mourning too long for the beloved Class of 1944.

ITEM: To the Juniors we leave Room 26 complete with shiny desks, books, AND Mrs. Eddy. Our Senior boys have also agreed to part with their collection of pin-up girls. Do with them what you will.

ITEM: The following bequests we make in good faith, hoping that they will be received in the same spirit.

The Freshmen's long, butterfly hair ribbons, and lollypopped mouths certainly surpass your feather clips. At least they look and act their age.

Goldsmith's lines can be aptly altered to express the underclass sentiments of the Seniors—

"And still they gazed, And still the wonder grew" That one big head Could know so few.

Speaking in earnestness, I do want to thank you on behalf of the underclassmen for the good times we have spent together. We will miss your kindly advice. Your cooperation and attendance at the social and scholastic programs throughout the year were greatly appreciated. We hope we can do as well.

As you depart from Enfield High School, take our blessings with you. We know that you will meet the problems of the outside world unflinchingly. We, the underclassmen, wish you the best of luck.

"STATIC" EDITORIAL STAFF

Front row (left to right)—Joan Fahey, Joan Kennedy, Jennie Zawada, Janice Ryan, Margaret Kiley, Janet Bromage, Wanda Pierog, Claire Pare, Claire Rush.

Second row-Eleanor Longmore, Genevieve Ward, Irene Mercier, Carmelina DiMaria, Dorothy Dobrozensky, Harriet King, June Magnuson.

Third row-Robert Watton, Jean O'Brien, Elspeth Stow, Cosimo Bosco.

- 1. David Bordua leaves his ability to exaggerate his many out of town girls to any underclassman who has the genius to surpass his "line". (His little black book with the phone numbers is not included.)
- 2. Tom Cammilleri bequeaths his high water trousers to Sam Scavatto of the Junior class; also his quiet shy manners and soft voice.
- 3. John O'Brien leaves his Terpsichorean ability to the underclass boys who are all desperately in need of it.
- 4. To Mrs. Eddy we leave the window pole as a "secret weapon" of defense against the tyrannical Juniors.
- 5. Claire Pare leaves her all-round personality and flexible ability to anyone who can combine thinking and doing.
- 6. To Ray Keller, Joe Rumore bequeaths his devilish personality and mischievousness.
- 7. To the underclassmen we bequeath a brand new set of balls and chains which will replace the wild detention room and which should bring peace and quiet to study hall.
- 8. Fred Bomely leaves his curly hair, "way with the women," and popularity to James Richards.
- 9. Janet Bromage leaves her happy go lucky complex and her dashing smile to "Cookie" Furey.
- 10. To Marie Binnekade, Joan Kennedy bequeaths her long glamorous hair.

- 11. "Jo" Angelica divides her noise and superfluous pep equally between Eva Basile and Ramona Figurato.
- 12. Flo Moscetti reluctantly leaves her popularity to Wanda Mastalitz of the Sophomore class. We know she'll make the best of it.
- 13. An autographed copy of her autobiography entitled, "How to Flirt Effectively" by Dorothy Dobby goes to Ruthie Blackmore.
- 14. To Dick Vining, Mat Korona leaves his basketball uniform and the gym floor. That's all he needs.
- 15. Edward Zebrowski leaves his vocabulary to the dictionary in Room 26.
 - 16. Sonny DeCaro leaves the girls of Enfield.
- 17. Terry Burke leaves his ability to find his way around New York subways to any Junior planning to make the class trip. We sincerely advise you to bring along some means of identification just in case you get lost.
- 18. We Seniors who have learned to conduct ourselves as ladies and gentlemen when passing to and from assembly, at dances and at our class meetings, generously bestow our docile manners upon the underclass "ruffians", in order that they may become as refined as the members of our superb class.
- 19. To June Provencher, Adeline Cimino leaves her sweet manners and cuteness.
- 20. To Mr. Tatoian we leave our sincere hope that no future chemist will attempt to blow the school to Kingdom Come. He will never be fortunate enough to find another class so chemically inclined as ours.
- 21. To Miss Brakel, Miss Raissi, and the Static, we leave our remarkable ability as writers, stencil-cutters, poets and gossipers.
- 22. To the Juniors we leave the spacious desks of Room 26, which to the underclassmen are elaborate waste paper baskets. May heaven bless you during Clean-up week!
- 23. Lincoln Fuge receives the handsome features of Charles Robinson and Edmund Renals combined.
- 24. Margaret Kiley leaves her oratorical abilities to Louise Egan for use in debates.
- 25. Josephine Caramazza leaves her high scholastic standing to James Jackson.
- 26. To the Class of 1945, we bequeath the dignity and stateliness that is symbolized in the Class of 1944.
- 27. Bob Watton's ever-lasting arguments are left in the hands of Dick Shields. We know he'll make good use of them.

28. Frances Burns leaves her dignity and fastidiousness to Dorothy Bridge.

29. That men may live free from aggression our classmates, Joseph Cusimano, Clarence Hicks, Donald Perry, Edward Zebrowski and Gilbert Pierce have bequeathed to the United States of America their services in the Army, Navy and Marine corps. They have already left us 5 blue stars on our service flag in the corridor.

We, of the Class of 1944, leave to the school, the faculty, and the students of Enfield, a firm resolution that we shall do everything in our power to bring a speedy victory and a just and lasting peace for them and for all people.

We hereby appoint Mr. Hassett our sole executor of this our last will and testament.

In witness thereof, we, the Class of 1944, set our hand and seal this twenty-first day of June, one thousand nine hundred and forty-four.

FORWARD TO A BETTER WORLD

ALL America is anxious to get the war over with and to start building a better future. What is the best "blueprint for tomorrow?" One thing we know: Free enterprise made us great and can make our country still greater. Free business, free banking, these are guarantees of initiative, flexibility, progress. Our bank is geared to your needs today. We will keep abreast of your needs tomorrow. That is the American Way of banking.
